AUSTRIA READY TO NEGOTIATE PEACE

DECLARES ACCEPTANCE OF WILSON'S VIEWS AND WILL NOT WAIT ON ACTION OF GERMANY.

(By the Associated Press)

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 28.—Austria in her reply to President Wilson, accepts all views expressed by the President in his note of October 19th. Austria says she is willing and ready, without awaiting the results of other negotiations, to negotiate peace and an immediate armistice on all Austro-Hungarian fronts.

Ludendorff Quits His Job.

LONDON, Oct. 28th.—General Ludendorff resigned as First Quartermaster General of the German armies because the military authorities were placed under civilian control. The retiring General, an exchange telegraph dispatch adds, has returned to Great headquarters to take leave of the army and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg who remains as army chief.

Germans Anxious to Know Terms.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28th.—The German government's reply to President Wilson's latest note, asserting that peace negotiations are being conducted by the people's government with actual constitutional power, and that the terms of the American and Allied governments for an armistice are awaited, reached the Swiss Legation today by cable. The communication is regarded here as merely an acknowledgement of the President's note with an indication that the present Berlin powers desire to hasten a definite statement of terms upon which the Allies will permit hostilities to cease.

British Repulse Hun Attack.

LONDON, Oct. 28th.—British troops Sunday repulsed a determined attack to drive them from Famars, south of Valenciennes, Field Marshal Haig reports today. Many Germans were killed in street fighting in Famars. On the Mormal forest borders south of Valenciennes and north of Raismes forest, north of Valenciennes, the British improved their positions slightly.

British Assail Austrians.

LONDON, Oct. 28th.—The British tenth army today resumed its attack against Austro-Hungarian positions on the Italian front, the war office announces this afternoon. The attack is proceeding satisfactorily.

American Long Range Guns at Work.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 28th.—(3 p. m.)—American long range guns this afternoon began firing on Longuyon. Longuyon is twenty-eight miles northeast of Verdun. American long range pieces also began firing on the vital point Voie de Rocade, on the railway paralleling the front. The Germans depend on this road to shift troops and supplies.

British Hammering the Turks.

LONDON, Oct. 28th.—British advancing in Mesopotamia have cut the road from Sherghet to Mosul, one of the principal Turkish communication lines. This probably will force the Turks to fall back on Mosul. General Allenby's army, advancing from Damascus has captured Aleppo, 480 miles to the north.

HUNS WANT TO KNOW TERMS

NOTE INSISTS THAT GERMAN GOVERNMENT IS IN HANDS OF THE PEOPLE.

(By the Associated Press)
Germany asks the Allies to name the armistice terms. A note to this effect, the unofficial text of which was obtained yesterday by the Associated Press, is now on the way to Washington from Berlin. The note calls attention to far reaching changes in German constitutional architecture and is said to aver that a people's government in control of the military powers is carrying on the negotiations.
German forces holding a sharp salient between the Oise and Serre rivers in France have been compelled to abandon positions obstinately held for the last twelve days. French armies on either side of this salient struck Saturday flattening out the angle in the enemy's front. It is reported that the Hunding line has been broken near Ouisse and the entire German line north and south of the city is in danger. In Valenciennes neighborhood the French are still fighting ahead but progress over the front between Mormal forest and the Scheldt river bend has been slow.

TOM D. M'KEOWN WILL GO TO TRAINING CAMP

Congressman Tom D. McKeown has been accepted for the infantry officers' training school at Camp Fremont, California, which opens about December 1st. He has already passed the physical examination and will go when the call comes. Although the draft law exempts congressmen, Tom McKeown, who voted against this provision, refused to benefit by it and will take his place in the ranks. The graduates of the school will be given commissions as second lieutenants.

This is no small sacrifice on the part of the Congressman. Instead of a salary of $7,500 per year, he will draw $30 per month while in training and $1,800 as second lieutenant.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic.

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists.

Politics are reconvened, says Teddy. We were not aware that Teddy had adjourned them.

Reports from the western part of the state are that good rains have fallen and the wheat crop is doing well. It is hard to out do Oklahoma in war work.

Berlin announces that explanations of the change in the German Constitution will be made in another note to President Wilson. We prefer that this explanation be made by accepting the terms of the Allies, commanders, Messrs. Foch, Pershing and Haig. No other explanations are necessary or desired.

It is reported that the Jews, Americans and other subject races of the Turkish empire look upon the armies of the Allies that are sweeping the Turks out of the country as sent by the Lord for their deliverance and they are expressing their gratitude most profusely, although some are not yet able to fully comprehend what the new freedom means. For more than a thousand years the Turks have oppressed these people and made every effort to force them to become Mohammedans, but they have held steadfastly to their faith and maintained their identity as separate peoples. Even the Arabs, who are themselves Mohammedans, welcome the allied armies and are co-operating vigorously with them against the common enemy. This region was in ancient times the most fertile and productive on the globe and the people the most prosperous, but the brutal Turks long ago turned it into a semi-desert and made slaves of the inhabitants. There is no thought of returning these newly freed people to the rule of the sultan and in making the world free no people will rejoice more than these eastern Christians and Jews in their newly found liberties.

Under ordinary circumstances interned vessels of a nation would be returned to the owners after the close of the war, but the council of shipping of Great Britain is already protesting against this being done in the case of Germany. It points out that about half of that empire's shipping is held in neutral ports or nations at peace with Germany when the war broke out, these vessels being forced to seek refuge in neutral ports to prevent their capture by the enemy. The council calls attention to the fact the tonnage of the allies has been greatly reduced by the submarine campaign and should the German ships be returned Germany would have a big advantage over the allied nations in ocean traffic. This is sound reasoning, for the Huns have boldly stated on more than one occasion that that was one object of their ruthless destruction of vessels of other nations. The United States is using a whole fleet of these former German ships in war service and will need them for a long time after the war in over bringing troops home. These vessels are the property of individuals, and not the German government, and if anything is done about it they might be paid for their ships, but on no account should they be returned to be used in competition with the trade of the nations the Kaiser sought to conquer.

It is reported in newspapers published in Holland that the German people are drawing their deposits out of the banks, thereby seriously crippling the banks and giving grave concern to the government. If this is true, the whole fabric of German organization may crash some fine day and then the end will be in sight.

MAJ. FRANK E. EVANS

Maj. Frank E. Evans of the marines was decorated twice in one day for bravery.

PETER SOBIESKI

Here is a man who would rather be a brakeman in the United States than a ruler in Europe. Peter Sobieski, a descendant of King John III of Poland, says the wild beast of Berlin offered him a kingdom. Sobieski recently arrived in Oakland, Cal., from Arizona, where he has been working as a brakeman on a railroad. He has made application for enlistment with the United States army as an interpreter. Sobieski's uncle, who lives in Los Angeles, two years ago was offered the throne of Poland under Germany's dominion. He declined, preferring to remain a citizen of the United States. The job was then offered to Peter, who also declined.

PAULS VALLEY MAKES SLACKER ROAD ROUGH

Reports from the County Council of Defense of Garvin County are that effective Methods are taken to carry on the war work of that county. One farmer whose liberty bond quota was set at $1,600 refused to buy that many bonds and offered to buy $1,000 worth. The Council proceeded to get out a circular branding the man as a slacker and requesting the citizens of the town to have nothing to do with the man. Firms out of town with whom he had been accustomed to dealing also were instructed that he was not helping win the war and asked not to sell him goods.

This farmer came to town a few days later with butter and eggs, and other farm produce, so the story goes, and could find no merchant who would buy. He went to the bank to cash a check. The banker informed him that he could get what money belonged to him, but that his account was no longer desired. He wanted to buy a newspaper from a newsboy. When the newsboy looked up and recognized the man he threw the money on the walk, and said no slacker could buy his papers. It was only a few days until the farmer was pleased to buy the $1,600 worth of bonds, sign a loyalty pledge card and informed the members of the council that he was at their service, to do as they advised.

HEALTH SITUATION SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

The influenza epidemic in Ada appears to be abating somewhat and it is believed that this week may see the worst of it over. The hospital is discharging patients rapidly, and the number still under treatment is now around eighty.

The following deaths have occurred since Saturday's report:
Dora Northcut, age three, daughter of O. S. Northcut and wife. Dora Scates, age three, daughter of Oscar Scates and wife, North Ada. Mrs. Lillian Edwards, wife of K. S. Edwards, seven miles northeast of Ada.

Three deaths are reported from the colored population, as follows:
King Blue, Son Bruner and the one-year-old son of David Alberts, Ada. The first two were on Jack Fork.

KATY ENGINEER KILLED IN WRECK

The northbound passenger on the Katy was wrecked Saturday afternoon at Hazel. Timothy Manahan, the engineer, was killed and John Cooper, fireman, painfully hurt. The engine and baggage car turned over but the other cars remained on the track, and none of the passengers were injured.

You Have to Soak 'Em.

The "guy" was giving his son, with whom being out of a job was fast becoming chronic, a lesson in patriotism.

"Have you bought a Liberty bond?" he asked.

"No; costs too much!"

"Buy a Thrift stamp?"

"Thrift stamps? Huh! Too small."

"But they have one mighty fine habit, my boy—they stick."—Cartoons Magazine.

Explained.

Willis—Has your son started at college yet?

Gillis—Yes, I went down the first week he was there and paid $800 worth of bills.

Willis—Great Scott, isn't he extravagant?

Gillis—Oh, those were bills that I ran when I was in college. The tradesmen wouldn't trust him until they were paid.—Judge.

Cut Short.

"Gayspur and Githersby had a warm argument at the club the other night as to which was the worst henpecked."

"And who won?"

"Neither. Right in the middle of the argument both received orders to come home immediately."

Monarchical.

The Oldest Inhabitant—I am sorry to say that his reason is now tottering on its throne.

By-Products.

"We utilize everything but the squeal," remarked the manager of the abattoir.

"Couldn't we phonograph that," inquired the foreman, "and let the ultimate consumer use it when he kicks about the price?"

KICKED WRONG SUITOR.

Miss Bear—Won't you come in, Mr. Rabbit?

Mr. Rabbit—No, thank you, Miss Bear. Your father kicked me out once. That's enough. I'm no pig.

Miss Bear—Oh! there's no danger today. The porcupine called last night.

No Bragging.

We must not brag—it's very wrong; So be it understood That when we voice a promise strong We'll go in and make good.

When She Economizes.

Mr. Myles—Does your wife economize in any direction?
Mr. Styles—Oh, my, yes.
"In what does she economize?"
"In shoe leather. She always insists upon wearing shoes two sizes too small for her."

Quite So.

"That was a speaking likeness of the mint in the paper the other day." "Is 'speaking' quite the right word to use in connection with the picture of a building?"
"Sure; doesn't money talk?"

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GERMANS TURNED OUT OF LUXURIOUS QUARTERS

With the American Armies in the Field, Oct. 21.—All the comforts of home with some added luxuries, were found in the dugout and living quarters which the Germans were forced to abandon when the American troops smashed through the St. Mihiel salient and took the territory which the German army had occupied for four years.

Running water, electric lights, steam heat, tennis courts, bowling alleys, swimming pools, pianos and wine cellars were some of the up-to-date conveniences which Uncle Sam's "moppers-up" that followed on the heels of the rushing American soldiers found in some of the quarters of the German officers.

The more elaborate quarters were located in the thickly-set woods which abound in this part of France, and most of them represented the work of four years. The majority of them were of elaborate rustic construction and usually had shell-proof shelters connected with them. Furniture and decorations taken from the French inhabitants of neighboring villages formed the principal interior equipment.

One of the most unique of these officer's quarters was located in the little village of Evreux, about 20 miles from Metz. There were two tiers of rooms with broad balconies in front and all lighted by electricity. In the lower floor was an elaborate sitting room, containing richly upholstered furniture, a piano, oil paintings, inlaid tables and beveled mirrors. This apparently was the headquarters of a high officer, for in it was found many maps, plans and a telephone switchboard. Outside was a bowling alley and a small swimming pool.

At one side was a wine cellar well stocked with apple wine, beer and other beverages dear to the German heart. Immediately adjoining was a shellproof dugout, forty feet deep and capable of holding sixty men. Next to this was a shoemaker's hut where a number of women's shoes and slippers were found, indicating that the Germans had women in their trenches. Higher up in the woods was a vegetable farm, and overlooking all is an observatory, which gave a surpassing view of the country for miles around.

Everything was confusion. Uniforms, rifles, pots, dishes, books and all kinds of military paraphernalia, were heaped about everywhere, indicating that the Germans had fled in great haste. That the Germans expected to occupy this territory for a long time is shown by the character of their trenches. In cases these were of concrete and equipped with almost as many conveniences as a dwelling house. Some of them had running water, telephone communication, and heating stoves and piped drainage.

MRS. EMMA BRITT

Tells How Vinol Cures Strength for Tired, Nervous Housekeepers.

Texarkana, Texas.—"I keep house and I was sick, run-down and nervous, back ached a good deal of the time, so it was hard to take care of my chickens and do my work—Vinol has restored my strength, and my nervousness has gone, so I can do my work as well as ever."—Mrs. Emma Britt.

There is no secret about Vinol.—It owes its success in such cases, to beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body building and strength creating tonics. We recommend Vinol—Gwin & Mays Co., Druggists, and Druggists Everywhere.

ADVENTURE'S WAY

By MAISIE BROPHY.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

Susanah looked down the long village street where stone pavements basked in hot sunshine, and up the long street where a green hill sloped invitingly; then she paused in the gap of the hedge, wondering in which direction adventure lay. For Susanah was a child of adventure. Long ago, when she had visited at Aunt Jerusha's, in summer time, she had believed that fairies lurked in that hedge, that enchanting surprises were to be found all the way up hill.

Now, when Susanah's dress reached the tops of her trim high shoes, when her soft hair was massed in wavy curls upon her head, she still believed in fairies, in a slightly different way, while light of promising adventure shone alluringly in her dark lashed eyes.

"If," thought Sue, "you start out on the shortest journey, sure that lovely things are going to happen, why lovely things will happen."

And always Sue was right. She found the lovely things herself; an unusual flower, perhaps, in some hidden corner.

Susanah had discarded both the town road and the hill road for one leading down mysteriously into a vast shady ravine; in the very heart of this solitude, as she went expectantly along she discovered a winding crystal stream. The stream was narrow, and some invader had bridged it across with stones placed wide apart. Immediately Susanah was possessed of a desire to reach the other side by way of the same tempting stones. They were so broad and smooth; she tried the first one cautiously and it bore her weight, then at her daring leap to the second stone the adventurous light in her eyes deepened; this really was better than sitting listlessly in aunt's sleepy garden. Here was an element of chance which sent a flush to her cheeks—to be perched on a stone in midstream, with no one to come to her aid if the stone should slip, or if she should find herself unable to reach the third stone or return to the first.

Susanah laughed a merry laugh, which went echoing down stream to where a man sat fishing, just around the bend.

The man drew up his line abruptly and peered around the corner; then, "Great Scott!" he muttered, for the stream was not shallow, as Sue had believed.

"Of all the foolishness," the man grumbled; he was exceedingly annoyed that his afternoon's sport would be interrupted.

By way of attracting her attention, he began to whistle softly, and Susanah looked about. "Please remain where you are for a moment," the man called, and made his way to her along the slaty beach.

She stood quite still; this man, of course, was but part of her coming adventure.

"It will be dangerous for you to try to go farther," the man admonished, "and to move now might cause you a wetting. I will wade out in a moment and carry you back."

"Carry her back!" Susanah was about to indignantly protest, when the stone swayed beneath her feet; instead, she gave a startled cry. The man's strong arms caught her up just as she discovered that the soles of her shoes were growing uncomfortably wet. She wondered, as her deliverer's high boots splashed back through the water, at her own sense of perfect confidence.

"That," he remarked severely, "was a needlessly reckless thing to do. One has no right to allow their whims to carry them into—" Just then he paused, staring, for Susanah had, for the first time turned her wide eyes full upon him. Their glinting depths seemed to recall to him inexplicably certain joyous, care-free days of his boyhood. He smiled. Again he looked, and it was as though he, too, had glimpsed the fairies.

"I will not try to scold you," the man told Susanah. She dimpled. "I am very grateful to you," she answered.

"Billy," he called, "Billy."

Then suddenly he raised his voice in a hallo!

Down through the opening a boy came racing toward them. He wore a khaki suit, this boy, and doffed his hat to Susanah.

"Look after the boat and tackle, son," the man commanded. "I am going to walk up to the level." Susanah, moving quietly at his side, realized that in some strange manner her adventure had become unaccountably disappointing.

"I am going to ask a return for saving your life," the man was saying, laughingly; "we are camping out down here, but Bill makes abominable coffee. It would be too much to ask today, of course, but if you could manage to slip down here some time around midtime, and instruct him in the art of coffee-making; that is, if you do not live too far away—" His voice was eager.

"Couldn't your wife teach your son?" Sue stammered.

"I have no wife. 'Son' is a pet name I give to my boy scouts. I'm their scout master; we are all camping here together."

Susanah looked up the path to the opening, then down to the way of charmed adventure. "I will go back with you and show Billy about that coffee now," she said.

LETTERS FROM SOLDIER BOYS

From John C. Barnard
Dear Mother:
We have landed safely in France. I am well and feeling fine.
The place from which I now view the country sure does give one a wonderful impression—it looks just like a picture. We were all glad to see land once more, though the trip was a very pleasant one.
I have nothing to worry about and you must not. I am well and having a wonderful time and only hope I can keep in good health and do my little part all the way through until it is over here and if you will not worry and keep in good health and cheer it will only help me the more and I will be home some day to tell you the story of the long, long trail that's winding into no man's land where the shots and shells are bursting in France and then I can tell Mutt that we sure saw Kaiser Bill fall down the hill with a bullet in his pants.
This is a beautiful country and I am glad to have seen it and all of that, but there is no place like the good old U. S. A. and when Uncle Sam has proven to Germany that she can't and will never rule the world. I will follow Old Glory back across the little pond from where she first started, so don't worry for Charles and myself will make it fine and come back to you before long.
I like the ocean and they can always find me where I am needed most, among the wounded and sick with Base Hospital No. 88, somewhere in France.

From Homer D. Ledbetter.
Ada Evening News, Ada, Okla.:
I want to write just a few words to the home paper. Though I have not time to write much, but this is my last chance from here, yet I haven't taken tonight for a good chance, for this is a busy time all over camp until about ten or eleven o'clock each night.
I suppose you all know that we Pontotoc boys are all faring first rate. Everybody seems to be enjoying himself. There is a bunch of about eighteen in quarantine with myself in the crowd. We have now served about 20 days. It goes mighty hard with us sometimes when we want to get out. We at first had a fine time; took up all kinds of drill and practiced in rolling out rocks. We had all the companies bested on the pack, so we continued with these drills for a few days. Thought we would get released, but the captain thought we were doing good and we slacked down some but we are not out yet.

I would like for some one in Ada to give me Ras. McAdams' address. I have lost track of him since I was put in quarantine. I also heard his company had left. We were for some time in the same tent but moving from the casual camp to the infantry he was sent to the 8th and I to the 12th. But I have been lucky to get with the Oklahoma boys; have got in the same tent with some every move. Was glad I didn't get in with some of those Idaho guys. They have a funny talk. Every time they come in from drill and see us sitting around the first thing they say is, "pretty softie, ye guys." They sure have got some doubling time for the last two weeks. They say they can tell any of us from the rest of the company from the way we have fleshened up; and I guess it is so. We sure have had a good appetite if we haven't worked much.

There are several cases of influenza here in camp, also mumps and measles. A few of the Oklahoma boys of this company are in the hospital. They are raising sand because they think they won't get out in time to leave with the bunch.

Well, as I haven't time to write for being bothered so much by the men wanting help to roll their packs for full fire inspection. This inspection sure gets a move on them, when they have about 30 minutes to prepare for it.

The last platoon of the company is out on a hike, so I had better close before they crowd in.

If anyone wishes to write this Sammie, my address is Co. D, 12th Inf., Camp Fremont, San Francisco, California.
HOMER D. LEDBETTER.

From Sergt. Wm. C. Bracken
After a few days we were out on the Atlantic with nothing to see but water and the other ships that were in our convoy.

After we had been out a few hours some of the boys began to show symptoms of seasickness and soon they began to feed the fishes and if every ship that has come across has done as much towards feeding the fish as ours did they are surely living in luxury. But I was lucky enough not to get seasick and for several days myself and a few others had eats galore. But they soon began sneaking down to eat and then they made up for what time they had lost. And I began to long for a rough sea again as they were eating too heartily.

But we were a happy bunch when we sighted the English coast and we were delighted with the quaint light houses, fishing boats, and the hills along the coast with their small farms laid out and terraced so nicely.

When we landed we loaded onto something that looked like a passenger train in the days of 1812. But we afterward learned that they were up-to-date, modern passenger coaches. This said train was pulled by something that looked like a J. I. Case threshing machine, which I also learned was intended for a locomotive engine. You could easily put the blooming that in a H. S. locomotive engine. But holy smoke, that little dinky engine gained the respect of a certain H. S. Signal Corps unit when she pulled out and began her journey eastward. There were eight of us to a compartment. Each compartment, you know has a side door to it and you never get a chance to chew the rag with the conductor, as he never takes up your ticket; it is handled by the gateman, or gatelay, I should say, as the women are doing all this kind of work now. Women run all the street cars also. By the way, their street cars are built on the 1812 plan also. They are a two story concern and to get up to the second story the stairway winds up the side of the car.

I guess one of the reasons for their scenery being so interesting is because it is also ancient. The old castles you can see built in the side of some hillsides sure look interesting and makes a person want to explore them. Well, we landed on the other side of the British Isles and spent the night there, and believe me, the people were sure putting out the glad hand to us fellows. And I don't blame them a bit either. If I had put in four years at this war game I would have out the welcome sign too. But England has sure been doing her part of this struggle. They are doing wonderful things in the way of food conservation and in every way that will help win the war.

Well, the next evening we marched down to the wharf and onto a boat. And to our disgust and horror we found it to be a lime juicer, or in other words, a cattle boat. We were marched down in the hold and were divided up four men to a stall. I was lucky as there was only two of us in our stall. But we began to see the funny side when some one started to singing like a cow, and after we were issued our hard tack and canned willie we went in to see what we could see. After a night's sleep on the cattle boat we awoke to find ourselves looking on the shores of France. And maybe you think it wasn't a grand and glorious feeling when we saw old France. As we pulled into the harbor the people unfurled Old Glory over the French colors. Everyone had a smile and a cheer for us. We stayed there for two nights and we could hear the big heavies firing off to the north east of us. The second morning about 3 a. m. we marched down and loaded onto a string of Cheveau 8 Hommes 40. We call them stock cars in the states. They might put 40 Frenchmen in one of them Cheveau cars but we had 37 Americans in our car and we were too thickly located to enjoy the luxuries of a stock car to a very great extent.

However, we managed to get along very well until it came time to retire. Wherever it took quite a bit of maneuvering to get us all bedded down. We finally got settled all but three, and we took turns with them in sleeping and staying up. Well, we rode in those Cheveau cars for 3 or 4 days without unloading for feed and water. Of course we had our rations with us and we managed to get a canteen of water once in a while. Our little Cheveau cars soon began to contract flat wheels. At first it was not so bad as there was only one wheel affected with the malady. But all the rest of them began to get the disease and the commotion began to get terrific. We began to wake the civilians as we passed through towns and I think they wired ahead and they finally gave us another car.

We sure saw some pretty country on this trip. About this time we saw an almost unbelievable sight. Just across on some flat cars we saw some Deering binders, mowers and quite a bit of up-to-date American machinery, including some J. I. Case tractors and other machinery of various kinds. And looking further we saw some real American locomotives and they looked like giants by the side of the little dinky engines the French use.

Every where we went we saw the work of Americans. You can see American soldiers everywhere doing all kinds of work.

Well, we finally landed in a pretty little town out among the hills. We unloaded and took a 16 mile hike across the hills to another little town on another little hill. We landed about 1 a. m. The cooks had gone on ahead of us in trucks and had some hot coffee and a light lunch for us. The billeting of flyers was there on the job and soon had us all a place to sleep. I got a room that was built several hundred years ago. It had the dungeons and all the other kind of places that go with these old French castles and Chateaus over here.

We lay down on our soft couch of stone and slept for 8 or 10 hours. When we got up and went down to breakfast the general was there and complimented us very highly when he found that not a one of us had fallen out on the hike.

That evening we took in the town and the surrounding country and found many interesting things, including wild berries and fruits of all kinds.

I didn't get to stay there very long as I was sent off to a training school for signal work. I put in four weeks hard studying at school in a pretty little city of about fifteen thousand. They had some very interesting places there. An old church for instance that was built in 1026 and it had the tombs of some of France's great people in it.

I got to see lots of large towns and country by going to this school that otherwise I would not have seen. At the end of our term at this school I joined my organization up here at the front and business was pretty tame around here until a few days ago. And since then I haven't heard anyone wishing for excitement back at our own division working a wireless set didn't get quite as much excitement as the boys that went over the top. But when we moved our last time before the drive started we moved in the night. From the way traffic was going over the roads it looks as though every one else was doing the same. It is a mystery how they get so many trucks and wagons over the roads on a dark night as no one is allowed to have a light of any kind. But they do it just the same. It took us just 6 hours to come some 5 or 6 kilometers that eventful night. Fritz was shelling the road and we would go a little piece and he would drop a few shells in front of us and a few would fall behind us and he kept that up all the way until I began to think that old man Sherman was a wise old bird after all. It looked as though he were trying to hit us particularly.

But we finally came through it all right. After we got here in the wee sma' hours he turned loose on a road just about fifty yards or so on the side of town opposite from him and of course we got all the shorts. By the time we got our equipment unloaded things were getting interesting and we began to long for a dug-out. He was still knocking holes through stone walls every few minutes and we soon found a dugout. We could hear the shells coming 10 seconds before they got to us and until you learn the sound it seems as though everyone was coming straight to you.

But what got our goats was that not one of our guns was firing at them. But we have repaid in full and more too for every shell they have thrown over. When our barrage opened up the other night it was music to us for we then realized the strategy in keeping our guns silent. For by doing so they were unable to locate our batteries and we got their range down pretty well I think for we silenced their guns in 20 minutes after we opened up.

Well Dad, our division has made quite a rep in this big offensive. We were up on high ground and in the open and to get to the enemy the boys had to go through open country full of barbed wire entanglement. The Boche were in heavy woods and had excellent trenches. On account of the woods we didn't get any assistance from the tanks as the other divisions had. But when the boys went over they never hesitated but waded right through them and they are still going.

I was up on the front yesterday and got some souvenirs off of dead

Dutchmen. I am sending you one of their helmets and caps. I got a good pair of boots also but think I will keep them to wear this winter when I get in the mud.

The evening of the day that they started the drive they began bringing in the prisoners a hundred or more in a bunch. Once in a while you would see a doughboy coming down the road with 2 or 3 that he had captured. He would be so tired and thirsty and covered with mud he could hardly get along. But he was happy. Some of our fellows would get wounded. One of two for instance got a machine bullet in the jaw but they just kept right on going until some officer would find him and make him go to the dressing station. Such grit as that you know is bound to win the war.

The day before yesterday the Y. M. C. A. sent over chocolate cakes, cigarettes and tobacco for us fellows and it sure was a treat for us. The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. have won fame over here for such deeds as this. The Salvation Army has won the hearts of all through their doughnuts. And don't think for an instant they stay back in the rear with it either. In this one case they were unable to follow them up very closely. The Red Cross is giving us hot shower baths when they have the opportunity. And a fellow can't appreciate this fully until he has had to bathe in a canteen of water for a month or two.

Dad, you should have seen some of these people the boys liberated. I think it was about 400 refugees that had been back of the German lines for 4 years when they came through the towns. Such happy people I never saw before, old people and real young ones. One French soldier met his wife that he had not seen since the war broke out. Such cases as these repay us for all the hardships we are going through.

When you meet an old Frenchman that fought the Germans 40 years ago and he tries to thank you but chokes up with tears in his eyes, but when he looks over towards the Boche line you can see hatred and a determination that has kept up the spirits and the courage of these people through 4 years of this hell. It is then that you forget all your hardships and it makes you want to push on as we are doing, and to bring things to a brief and everlasting end.

I have no regrets whatever that I am over here. Even though I have left wife, baby, mother, father, brother and sisters on the other side. I know that our cause is right and just and that we are going to put Fritz out of biz forever. And it won't be long if they will give us a few dozen more of those wild Oklahomans over here. They sure put the fear of God in old Fritz the other day when they went over the top yelling like a bunch of mad steers.

Well, dad, I must bring this to a close. As you know this is an unusually long letter from me; but I thought I would make up for my long absence by telling it all up to date.

As ever, your affectionate son,

Complaints from the public loud enough to reach the ears of Mr. McAdoo have been heard concerning discourteous treatment of the public by railroad employees since the government took over the roads. Mr. McAdoo has issued a warning to such employees that such treatment will not be tolerated. The time has passed when the public can be treated with discourtesy. For a number of years the railroads have insisted that their employees show due consideration to their patrons and Mr. McAdoo means that this shall continue to be the policy.

Synopsis of The 1918 Screen Version of "The Bondman"

In Hall Caine's great novel "The Bondman" which has just been remade by William Fox in a 1918 form William Farnum plays a dual role. In the beginning he is Stephen Orry and later he is Stephen's son, Jason. The story hinges on Jason's vow to wreck vengeance on his father for abandoning his mother. But his father dies and Jason turns his desire for revenge against Sunlocks, his father's son of another wife. Both Sunlocks and Jason are in love with Greeba, daughter of the governor of the Isle of Man. Sunlocks and Jason go to Iceland and are confined in prison. Jason not knowing Sunlocks, saves his half brother from death in the mines. Jason is freed, but Sunlocks is condemned to death. Greeba pleads for Sunlocks' life, and Jason sacrifices himself by taking Sunlocks' place and dying for him.

PUBLICITY CHANGES SENTIMENT IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Sept. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press) The American publicity campaign is showing results in Mexico. The wide spread dissemination of facts concerning the war aims and accomplishments of the United States are, according to foreigners long resident here, bringing about a change of sentiment, which, if not characterizable as love for Americans may at least be called respect.

The effect of the Allied blacklist becomes more noticeable daily. The Germans apparently have much less money than formerly to spend on propaganda. German firms, forced to deal in hidden ways to secure even the smallest imports from the states, are less prosperous. Arrogance of German officials and business men in public places is decreasing. Since it became known that four members of the American club alone in the building at the time, evicted thirteen Germans who invaded the club, there have been no further outbreaks.

Posters, pamphlets, reading matter for newspapers, war photographs for window display, daily official cable reports, reading rooms, moving pictures and authoritative statements by American officials on international questions, are among the means adopted by the United States government to change the long standing dislike for Americans that have prevailed in Mexico.

Through these various channels the war aims of the United States, its accomplishments in the raising of a huge army, the sending of a million and a half men overseas in record time, its achievements in building a merchant marine, its enormous war expenditures, and the unity of its people, are being brought to the attention of the intelligent Mexican public in a way never before attempted. The campaign also is having its effect on the American residents who armed with facts and encouraged by news of American successes in battle, are doing vigorous personal missionary work.

Another effect of the truth campaign is the disclosure of the falsity of the news reports regarding Germany's successes and aims, for which Teuton propagandists are responsible. It has been shown that the German papers published here do not receive the news in the way they advertise, that it is taken from American papers smuggled across the border at Laredo, distorted in the rewriting and then telegraphed to German papers in the capital and other cities.

Outward signs of the increase in pro-ally sentiment are the number of newspapers seeking news reports from American sources, the amount of space given in periodicals to allied war news, the increase in the number of defaced, the additions to the ranks of pro-ally publications of numerous new periodicals and the growing popularity of allied moving picture films.

When President Wilson, General Pershing, the American flag and marching American soldiers first appeared some time ago on the screen in a down town motion picture theatre there was a protest. Recently, a theatre holding more than 4,000 spectators, in a poor district where anti-American sentiment has been high, there was not a murmur when virtually the same characters flickered on the screen. In fact, one ardent pro-ally Mexican had to be forcibly prevented from making an anti-German speech.

According to mining and smelter men, reports that German interests are buying up huge areas of mineral and oil lands are quite contrary to fact. They assert that German mining interests are in sore straits and that no ore produced in a German owned mine is being smelted.

There also is a noticeable lack of the anti-American satire that formerly pervaded certain theatrical performances given in the capital. Recently a well known star put on a pro-ally sketch and achieved some measure of success with it.

That the Germans propaganda leaders have realized their machine is slipping a cog is shown by the well authenticated report that the management of El Democrata, a leader in attacks on the United States is to be changed. The post has been occupied by Rafael Martinez, a deputy, known under the pen name of "Rip Rip," who was elected to the senate at the recent elections.

90TH DIVISION MAKING RECORD

Oklahoma City, Ok., Sept. 10.—Governor Williams is in receipt of a letter, coming today, from Henry T. Allen, editor of the Wichita Beacon, and for many months in Red Cross work in France. He speaks of the 90th Division, which is made up largely of Oklahoma and Texas boys, who were trained at Camp Travis. The letter is dated Aug. 13, and the division was at that time about ready to move to the front. Mr. Allen says: "The division is in excellent health and in fine spirit. The complimentary reports made on it by training experts reflect credit on Oklahoma and Texas."

"The division has been billeted in one of the most picturesque parts of France, in fifty-three towns and villages, and thus far I have not received a single complaint of the conduct of any man. The number of courts-martial has been extraordinarily small and the sick report far better than at any time at Camp Travis. In fact, the imminent departure of the division from this training zone is bringing forth expressions of regret from all the towns."

"There is no doubt but that you will continue to have favorable reports of this division. The appearance of the men shows marked vitality and fighting force. They will be a genuine asset in the coming months over here, but a still greater one to their states when they return by reason of the broad increment to their education."

OF INTEREST TO NEXT REGISTRANTS

In answer to frequent inquiries, W. A. Riley, secretary of the local exemption board, states that he has had no orders regarding the date of delivery of questionnaires to registrants and the date of medical examination, but that judging from the size of the task in hand he is inclined to think that the questionnaires will be mailed as soon as possible after registration and the date for medical examination fixed later. This will be announced as soon as orders are received.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BOWEN

ZUZEPPA, THE MONKEY.

"Zuzeppa," said Daddy, "was a monkey who had come from Africa. He lived in the zoo, where there were many other monkeys. He swung on his bars, ate good meals, made up faces, did tricks and kissed the keeper. Everyone liked him and he liked everyone."

"In fact he enjoyed nothing more than visits to the zoo of children and grown-ups. He would like it best when they stood before his cage so he could sit down and put his hands through the wires and shake a how-do-you-do with them."

"Then he would go flying off to swing, or turn a somersault or some sort of a trick, and when the people laughed he was absolutely delighted."

"I wanted to be as smart as any monkey here," he would say to himself, and by his ways the keeper knew he wanted to be taught tricks."

"You'd like to learn to do a number of smart things, eh Zuzeppa?" asked the keeper, and the monkey gave him a little hug and a kiss as though to say, "Oh, please teach me, keeper."

"The keeper understood and began teaching Zuzeppa all sorts of wonderful tricks. 'We'll have a special performance for you to give,' the keeper said one day."

"And for that special performance the monkey practiced so very, very hard. And the keeper was patient and showed the monkey how to do different things many, many times over. The monkey was very quick and bright and learned everything remarkably quickly."

"The special performance was to be given on a day set aside by the keeper. Of course it couldn't be advertised all around as a circus could, but the keeper told all his special children friends who came to the zoo very often and they told their friends, and it got around so that for the day of the performance the monkey house was filled with children."

"Let me shake hands with the performer," the keeper said, and he shook hands with Zuzeppa. Then they each bowed, and the keeper said, "Now Zuzeppa will show you his circus tricks."

"So Zuzeppa hung by his tail and turned many somersaults, he swung back and forth and jumped and twisted and turned. He did the most marvelous of circus tricks and all the children clapped their hands and the other monkeys yelled and screamed. 'Well done, Zuzeppa!'"

"No one else knew what the monkeys meant but everyone knew they were excited. They weren't jealous of Zuzeppa, for they knew he wanted to learn tricks and be a trick-performing monkey. Besides he had worked hard enough to have the whole monkey house to himself for an afternoon."

"Now," said the keeper, "Zuzeppa will do his special trick. It has been done before by monkeys but Zuzeppa never did it before, and he has been practicing it so he could do it beautifully for this fine performance."

"The keeper took out a little wooden table and put a napkin upon it and a cloth. Then Zuzeppa spread the cloth over the table, reached down in a box the keeper had, and took out a knife and a fork and a spoon. He put all these on the table and then tied the napkin around his neck."

"Next he took a little broken chair which was in his cage and sat upon it."

"The keeper acted as the waiter, and passed things to Zuzeppa. And what do you suppose Zuzeppa did?"

"What?" asked the children.

"Zuzeppa behaved at that table just as though he were a real person. He ate with his fork and he cut with his knife. He peeled his banana which he had for dessert and then he ate it, wiping his mouth with his napkin."

"But when he was all through his meal and had put his hands in a finger bowl to make them nice and clean, he took a pipe, which the keeper handed him, struck a match and lighted the pipe. He only smoked for a second or two, blowing the smoke out, as he didn't especially care for it. But oh how happy he was when the children laughed and clapped their hands! And this is a true story!"

"Age for Wisdom." Japan apparently is ruled by old men. Prince Yamagata, at the age of eighty-three, is still the center of political influence; Baron Shibusawa, in spite of his seventy-eight years, is constantly dragged from his would-be retirement, and Marquis Okuma, at seventy-nine, is still at the vortex of public affairs. It is reported that Japan attempts nothing of any great moment without the assistance of the influence of these three great old men.

AUGUST WAR STAMPS

SALES $16,000,000

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 10.—Oklahoma has sold sixteen million dollars in War Saving Stamps, not including sales for August, according to a report issued by the Treasury Department. These figures represent the actual cash paid into the coffers of the government. With five months of the year not reported there remains thirty million dollars in stamps unsold.

Nebraska leads the United States having sold its entire year's quota. Kansas is well up in the lead while Oklahoma is far from being among the leaders. Sales during June were heaviest for the year and a good showing was made in July. A few scattering reports of sales in August show a marked decrease, although it is estimated that the sales for last month will exceed those of any month prior to June.
